This Week's Parashah

Joseph is Rachel's first son, and Jacob's favorite. Joseph's brothers envy him because he is favored and hate him because of his arrogant dreams. In one dream, the brothers' sheaves of grain bow down to Joseph's; in another, the sun, the moon, and eleven stars bow before him. Joseph's brothers plot to kill him. Reuben, however, convinces his brothers to throw Joseph into a pit instead. When Reuben is away, the brothers sell Joseph to a caravan of merchants. They dip Joseph's coat in goat blood and bring the coat to Jacob, who now assumes that Joseph is dead. Joseph is sold to Potiphar, an officer of Pharaoh. Joseph does well here until Potiphar's wife tries to seduce him. When Joseph resists her, she accuses him of attacking her, and Joseph is thrown in prison, where he meets Pharaoh's butler and baker, and he interprets their dreams. Joseph's interpretations are correct.

Today's Haftarah

Zechariah relates a vision of Joshua the Kohen Gadol (the High Priest), standing before God and Satan. Joshua is dressed in dirty clothing, representing his defilement for failing to uphold the word of God. God is ready to forgive Joshua - to clothe him in fresh garments - if Joshua will walk in the Lord's ways and safeguard the Jewish teachings. An angel appears to the prophet and shows him a menorah made entirely of gold, having seven lamps each filled with the oil from two nearby olive trees. The vision symbolizes God's constant care for His people. The prophet Zechariah urges his fellow exiled Israelites to rejoice and sing because God is with them. At the conclusion of the Haftarah, Zechariah shares his vision of a seven-branched menorah for the Temple. This serves as a link to Chanukah and its eight branched menorah, the chanukiyah.
