This Week's Parashah

Moses tells the people that he has set before them a blessing and a curse: a blessing if they obey God's commandments and a curse if they choose disobedience. Moses outlines the commandments to be observed in the Promised Land. The Israelites must destroy the worship sites of foreign gods. They must then establish a permanent and central worship site. They may slaughter and consume meat in their settlements, but they are not to eat of the tithes set aside for the sacrifice. The people are twice commanded in this portion to consume no blood of the animals they slaughter. Moses admonishes the people to be wary of false prophets who might try and lure them into worshipping other gods. The penalty for this behavior is death. Moses reiterates the laws of kashrut to the people, enumerating the animals that may and may not be eaten. Moses instructs the people to put aside as tithes a tenth of what they harvest and from the firstborn of their animals. These are to be consumed at the central sanctuary. A portion of the tithes brought by the Israelites is to be used to support the Levites, the orphaned and the widowed. Every seventh year is to be observed as a Sabbatical Year by relinquishing all debts and releasing Hebrew servants. The portion closes with Moses detailing the observance of the three pilgrimage festivals: Feast of Unleavened Bread, Feast of Weeks, and Feast of Booths.

Today's Haftarah

This morning we read a special haftarah from the book of Isaiah to mark the beginning of the month of Elul, the last month before Rosh Hashanah (the New Year). It gets this special designation because the end of the section discusses new months. Also, as our Torah portion instructs us about building the Temple in Jerusalem, this prophetic reading predicts the building of a second Temple in Jerusalem (after the first was destroyed by the Babylonians). As the Jews are coming back from exile around 2500 years ago, thinking that Judaism is forever gone, they need to be comforted, which God does by reminding them that Jerusalem will be rebuilt and God is there to console.

Thought to Ponder:

This parsha describes a centralized place where all the people must worship (i.e. a Temple). What are the pros and cons of such a system?
